

Age Appropriate Communication

Infants to 8 Years

Program Topic Area: Child Growth and Development

This training program is registered with the SCCCD and meets SC Department of Social Services (DSS) training requirements. (5 Contact Hours)

This training will help participants understand the difference between age appropriate communication and individual appropriateness. Participants will strengthen their knowledge base in understanding all areas of child development relating to giving specific instructions, being understood, hearing, being heard and establishing a meaningful and productive relationship with each child.

Participants will:

1. Explore specific behavior patterns that affect age appropriate communication that will help children use language in meaningful ways.
2. Identify principles and practices for children who may be challenged with learning and/or behavior problems.

It's After School Time!

Program Topic Area: School Age

This training program is registered with the SCCCD and meets SC Department of Social Services (DSS) training requirements. (5 Contact Hours)

After school programs should provide children with fun and enriching learning opportunities that extend beyond schools' traditional academic style. These programs should benefit and enhance the surrounding community as well.

Recent studies have shown that children who are involved in a quality afterschool program exhibit fewer behavior problems, have a better ability to handle conflicts, and possess improved self-confidence.

After a fully structured day in school, children are ready to wind down. In order to reduce boredom, children need a variety of hands-on activities. Remember, school-age children want to move smoothly and easily from one activity to another. This workshop will cover:

1. Growth and Development of Early School Age Children
2. Schedules and Activity Planning
3. Types of After School Activities
4. Maximizing the Use of Learning Centers
 - Educational
 - Social
 - Recreational
 - Outdoor

Prime Time Together with Young Children

Let's Have Fun and Do Something Different!
Infants to 8 Years

Program Topic Area: Curriculum Activities

This training program is registered with the SCCCD and meets SC Department of Social Services (DSS) training requirements. (5 Contact Hours)

In the course of day to day experiences with young children, it's easy for teachers to see that spontaneous activities are a natural way of learning. Participants will learn how to encourage children's creativity by planning a daily schedule that will give them many opportunities to observe, explore and create at their own pace.

Participants will:

1. Be presented with helpful ideas that will address the physical, intellectual, social and emotional domains of a child's development to enhance effectiveness in their daily lesson planning.
2. Develop innovative techniques that will encourage children's creativity through group singing and movement activities.
